From the Heart, For A Cause
by PJ Group

'Pope' means 'Satisfy', 'Jai' means 'Heart'.

Pope Jai Thai is a casual Thai dining restaurant, established in 2012, the anchor brand of PJ Group, a social enterprise in Singapore. We employ and train across eight different beneficiary groups including persons with special needs, physical disabilities or mental health conditions; individuals who are hard of hearing/deaf, the visually-impaired, youth-at-risk, the vulnerable and the disadvantaged. We strongly believe in their potential, as such they comprise 90 percent of our workforce, making PJ Group one of the first SMEs in Singapore to do so.

We empower individuals by providing a whole suite of relevant F&B training skills and working experience in a real work environment. To date, we have succeeded in empowering and transforming the lives of more than 160 unique individuals and their families.

Adopting design thinking, we utilise a simplified redesign model to constantly innovate solutions that enhance productivity for all employees, while at the same time assisting employees who face challenges in their daily routines. One of our innovations is a unique light bell system that lights up to notify employees that there is a new order. Other support materials we have introduced include customised chopping boards with templates to ensure consistency in cutting.
